Questions for Reflection and Discussion

2 Corinthians 7:8-13

1. When have you been conflicted whether to extend forgiveness or hold a person accountable? Which did you choose? Why? Had the person repented?
2. If the church bridges forgiveness and accountability through repentance, should secular work places do the same? Why or why not?
3. If someone isn't repentant, how are forgiveness and accountability simultaneously offered?
4. What is difficult about holding someone accountable? What is difficult about forgiving someone?
5. What are the potential risks for neglecting accountability? Neglecting forgiveness?
6. In addition to sorrow, accepting of judgment, and eagerness for restitution, what other markers of repentance would you look for to discern if someone is repentant?
