1. When were some times that you felt your prosperity was a gift of sheer grace? When were some times that you felt you deserved your prosperity or had earned it? What difference would it make viewing it one way versus the other?
2. Do you more so view prosperity as an evil to avoid or a blessing to celebrate? Why?
3. Are there times you feel like you need to hide your prosperity in order to avoid judgment? Are there times you feel like you need to exaggerate your prosperity in order to avoid judgment? Why? What makes the difference?
4. What factors help you to be more generous? What factors lead you to desire more for yourself?
5. When are you happiest or most free: when you are giving or when you are receiving? Which do you work harder to increase in your life: giving or receiving? Why?
6. How can the reality of our future eternal prosperity shape our view of wealth in this world?
