Questions for Reflection and Discussion

Psalm 24

1. When you consider what "belongs to God," do you typically include your relationships, your skills, your job, your achievements, and your redemption? Why or why not?
2. If you lived everyday with the awareness that everything (including your talents, relationships, breath, energy, and job) all belonged to God, what would change?
3. When are you most likely to use what belongs to God for your own purposes? Least likely?
4. When your hopes are dashed and you experience disappointment, do you typically view it as an opportunity to display God to the world, or only focus on how you are affected? Why?
5. How can you begin to use those types of moments for God's purposes?
6. If God made you for His purpose, redeemed you for His purpose, and sustains you for His purpose, is there anything He cannot ask of you? Is there anything He can take from you that would be unfair (marriage, children, friends, job, recognition, life)? Why or why not?
